

Puerto Rican Day Parade 2010 June 13, 2010

Today is the day for Puerto Rican Day Parade, 2010, which is one of the biggest and largest celebrations of Puerto Rican culture.

The city of New York is all set to celebrate the Puerto Rican heritage and more than 2 million people are expected to gather on the 52nd annual National Puerto Rican Day Parade 2010 on Sunday, June 14, 2010.

Along with thousands of participants in the Puerto Rican Day Parade 2010, celebrities will also take part in one of the largest rallies in the country. The celebrities confirmed to perform on the Puerto Rican Day Parade 2010 are Marc Anthony, Daddy Yankee and Hector El Bambino.

The route of the Puerto Rican Day Parade 2010 will be a shorter one with small-time duration with singer Marc Anthony as this year's parade king.

The celebration of the Puerto Rican Day Parade 2010 will be aired on NYC's FOX 5 and WOR Channel 9. Live broadcast of the Puerto Rican Day Parade 2010 will also be streamed on EarthCam.com.

Article also available on:

ABH News

