

The construction of the colossal set of Transformers 2

EarthCam has published an interesting video "speeded up" that shows how it was built 's set in the vast desert of Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen...

December 6, 2009

Now Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen was released on DVD and Blu-Ray, but the video that we publish today is very interesting even though it relates to the filming, which took place in 2008.

This is a movie, published by EarthCam.net, which shows time-lapse construction of the huge outdoor set in the final battle of the film. The set was set up in a military area of White Sands, New Mexico, between June and July 2008. In the movie we also see the filming of some scenes, but not the huge explosion which finally completely destroyed the set.

Bay is currently working on the script of the third episode of the sci-fi saga along with Ehren Kruger, former co-writer of Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen.

Transformers 3 will be released July 1, 2011. More information about the film in our card.

Directed by Michael Bay, Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen was released June 24 in the U.S., 26 from us.

