

New Year EarthCam exclusive - real time - around the world and times square December 29, 2009

In order to see the Times Square celebration before, during, and after the new year, 11 Time Square earth cams are accessible from the comfort of your PC, Mac, notebook, netbook, and web enabled phone. It is also possible to see the celebration on earth cams positioned around the world.

One can click now or later to see what is occurring in real time. By tuning in at 10PM ET, a broadcast special will include the ball drop as well as the spectacular fireworks display that follows. Please be sure to share this article with all whom are interested in seeing 2010 celebrations globally as well as in New York City.

If you like information on social media, cool websites, technology, and gadgets, please feel free to subscribe above or contact me via email or twitter with any ideas you might suggest.

Happy 2010!