

New Orleans - Mardi Gras webcams

Posted on Tuesday, February 5, 2008 at 2:29 pm

Today is Fat Tuesday in New Orleans and there are several websites with webcams throughout the city. Don't worry if you couldn't get out to the Big Easy this year, join them in spirit without leaving your desk.

Earthcam.com has two great webcams. One is right on the corner of Bourbon Street and St. Peter Street, and the other is on the balcony of the famous Cat's Meow. You can watch them throwing beads to revelers on Bourbon Street below.

Nola.com has four working webcams that look onto the parade, the French Quarter, the Crescent City Connection bridge and the Mississippi River. The webcams update every 20 seconds and you can even adjust the time clock to look at the cams at a particular time. The pardecam is the most interesting of the four.

Tropical Isle & the Funky Pirate has a live webcam that takes a look at Bourbon Street right outside its bar.