

Watch Macy's 4th of July fireworks live online – Don't miss a thing July 4, 2010

It's 4th of July and that means fireworks. Along with all the other great events being held to celebrate Independence Day nothing says 4th of July quite like fireworks. It's a wonderful day to wrap up a fun-filled holiday spent with family and friends.

We gave you details in a previous article all about the annual Macy's Firework Display in New York. This really is a display not to be missed so if you're anywhere in the area you should try to get there. Earlier today we gave you details of some of the fantastic surprises planned for the event (see here).

Members of the Twilight: Eclipse movie, such as Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart will be making special guest appearances along with performances from teen favorite Justin Bieber and also Enrique Iglesias. NBC are broadcasting a spectacular about the display from 9:00 pm so even if you're too far away to attend you can enjoy every moment.

Now we know how frustrating it is when you really want to see the event but can't get to the TV. However you can get live online coverage of the event from EarthCam.com here so you really don't have to miss a thing. If you want to know how the annual Nathan's International Hot Dog Eating Contest at Coney Island went today, see here. We'd really like to hear how you've been celebrating so far today so why not let us know.