

The ALT proudly presents ... Stuff to do on New Year's

December 31, 2008

We here at the ALT Headquarters feel your pain when the new year rolls around. What could there possibly be to do? Although both Tony and Justin are of age, Tony isn't allowed anywhere near a bar due to an incident involving a penguin and some Cheez Doodles® and Justin is far too scarred by the incident to even consider having a nightlife. That being said (or sad depending on your point of view), we decided to compile a list of things one can do on this, the pinnacle of yearly entertainment.

Have a Nintendo Wii Party

A few suggestions for games: "Rayman Raving Rabbids," "DDR," "Guitar Hero/Rock Band," "Mario Party 8," "Wii Sports," etc. Avoid greasy finger foods (Cheez Doodles, shudder) or risk losing that nice bone-white finish on your Wiimotes.

Go Bowling

Where: Bowling and Beyond

When: 8:30 p.m.

What: Three hours of bowling starting at 8:30 p.m.

Cost: $54 pays for shoes and a lane with up to six bowlers (split between six people that's $9 per person).

Go skiing or Snowboarding:

Sundown Mountain is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Chestnut Mountain is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. with a D.J. and fireworks starting at 10 p.m. and lasting until 1 a.m.

Three words: "Family Guy" marathon!

"Here Tom Selleck ... come on, down the hatch ... come on. Hey! Hey, hey, no more for you Higgins, trying to steal Tom Selleck's food. No! No! You've had yours!" Classic.

Sip on sparkling grape juice

Not only are grapes a type of super fruit, but they're filled with antioxy-whatsits. Mmmmmm, healthful and tasty.

Baby sit for some mad cash to start off your New Year

Beware that sometimes the difficulty level of the kids you are watching does not necessarily match the level of pay. Oh, and when they've been put to bed you can always break out the sparkling grape juice.

Watch the ball drop around the world

The Web site newyears.earthcam.com (it's one of those sites that's too good for the 'www') will fill all your New Year's voyeur needs.

Make a YouTube video

Just make sure to give a shout out to the ALT, preferably by hiding the ALT logo somewhere in the background, a la the Superman figure in "Seinfeld."
