

Watch New Year's arrive from around the world

December 31, 2008

The crowds have been gathering in Times Square for the annual ball drop since early this morning...

Can't get to Times Square – or just want to stay home to celebrate the arrival of 2009 where it's warm? Check out EarthCam, will webcast the annual New Year's Eve Times Square celebration live from New York City – as well as cams from around the world.

The New Year's 2009 event, features more than 25 live camera views live from Times Square on December 31st. Cameras in additional locations throughout the world include London, Moscow and Prague, along with Las Vegas, Seattle and Chicago, among cities in the United States. Additional live and archived views of national and international celebrations are also scheduled.

There is also streaming audio and video available from Times Square. Click on the link above. The regular EarthCam will return on New Year's Day.