Testing is being done on the stage right now ahead of the Friday kickoff. How do we know this? EarthCam is already streaming the footage. They also posted a 20-second time-lapse video showing the stage being built.

HolyShip! put another spin on the live experience this year by airing live sets on satellite radio. This Ultra Miami stream might not make you feel like you're there, but this birds-eye view of everyone arriving on scene should make for quite the site. And hey, you'll still get those tropical sunsets.
