

Best Places to Watch Fourth of July Fireworks in Los Angeles

Cuzinlogic | June 27, 2017

Best Places to Watch Fourth of July Fireworks in Los Angeles

Fourth of July is right around the corner. That means fireworks... yay! If you're still unsure of the best places to watch fireworks in Los Angeles, keep reading. Here are a few great possibilities to consider.

Best Places to Watch Fourth of July Fireworks in Los Angeles

Fourth of July Block Party in Grand Park

If you never attended a block party before, this is the perfect opportunity! The event starts at 2 PM and concludes with a firework extravaganza at 9 PM, which is said to be the largest rooftop fireworks display in the area.

Factor in tons of delicious food and great music and it really is the place to be. Pets welcome. No alcohol allowed. Learn more: <http://grandparkla.org/event/4thofjuly>

Fireworks at the Dodger's Game

Do you love baseball? If so, head on out to Dodger Stadium on July 4 for a great game and a patriotic fireworks display. As of this writing, tickets for the game are still available. You even get a free limited-edition Dodger's t-shirt with your ticket purchase. The less expensive option is to watch the display, by parking somewhere outside the stadium. Learn more: <http://m.mlb.com/dodgers/tickets/special-events>

Americafest at the Rose Bowl

Another great option for fireworks in and around Los Angeles is the Americafest celebration at the Rose Bowl. Doors open at 2 PM and the fireworks start at 9 PM. In between, there's food, inflatable rides, a motorcycle stunt show and games and crafts for the kids. While you're there, why not have your own tailgate party? YUM! Parking for the day is $20. Learn more: <https://www.rosebowlstadium.com/events/detail/america-fest>

Hollywood Forever Cemetery

You may not automatically think of attending a Fourth of July celebration at a cemetery. But, the celebration at Hollywood Forever is worth your consideration. Pack a picnic and enjoy a screening of Jurassic Park, before the fireworks begin. A DJ and a themed photo booth are also part of the fun. Learn more: <http://www.hollywoodforever.com/culture>

4th of July at West

Looking for a family friendly place to watch fireworks and celebrate Independence Day? West has you covered this year with fireworks, food trucks, face painting, live music, games, prizes and a day of fun at the Culver City Fireworks Show at West LA College on the evening of Tuesday, July 4th. $5 for adults, Free for children under age 5. Gates open at 4:00 pm and fireworks begin at dusk. Picnic baskets and coolers are okay. No alcohol permitted. Learn more: <http://www.wlac.edu/Business-Community/4th-at-West.aspx>

Live Fireworks Broadcast on EarthCam

Can't make it to a fireworks show or don't want to leave home? EarthCam's got you covered with their live fireworks show! Take the fireworks with you wherever you are on Tuesday, July 4th and enjoy a special collection of live streaming webcams throughout the US. Experience the energy and excitement of the fireworks with real-time video and audio in locations from the East to West Coast! Learn more: www.earthcam.com

These are just six examples of the best places to watch Fourth of July fireworks in Los Angeles. Regardless of the location you choose, you're in for a very exciting and memorable treat!

Need a fun snack for your Fourth of July festivities? I've got you covered with this Red, White, and Blue Popcorn!

